

WALKER WANTS A DIVORCE

Brooklyn Supervisor Begins Suit, Naming John A. Connell Co-Respondent.

He Found the Latter in His House and Began to Shoot at the Ceiling.

HER COUNTER CHARGES IN DEFENCE.

She Wants $20 a Week Alimony and $500 Counsel Fee—Says Her Husband Is Worth $30,000 and Has an Income of $5,000.

The Walker-Connell domestic troubles were revived in Brooklyn yesterday, when Supervisor John G. Walker began a suit for an absolute divorce from his wife, Elizabeth T., naming John A. Connell as co-respondent.

Until recently Supervisor Walker and his wife, who is an attractive woman, lived at No. 42 Dresden street, in the Twenty-sixth Ward of Brooklyn. Three weeks ago their neighbors were aroused at midnight by pistol shots, a woman's screams and the loud voices of angry men at the Walker home.

An effort was made to suppress the facts, but they came out gradually in spite of police and political influence. Supervisor Walker had left his home late on the night in question. He said he was going to Philadelphia to arrange business matters.

In the proceedings yesterday in the Supreme Court it transpired that his pretended departure was only a part of a plan which he devised for the purpose of entrapping his wife. He had heard rumors about Mr. Connell's visits at his home during his absence. He had absolute confidence in his wife, but the rumors worried him and he determined to find out how much truth there was in them.

Returning at midnight, he says he found his wife and Connell in the parlor. It is alleged that Mrs. Walker's attire was not complete. Walker drew a revolver and began to shoot. The bullet went into the ceiling. Then he struck Mr. Connell on the nose. Connell grabbed his hat and ran from the house. Mrs. Walker also left the house very hurriedly.

In her answer Mrs. Walker denied every allegation, and made counter charges against her husband. In her affidavit she named a Miss Cooley. Through her counsel Mrs. Walker said she had no desire to secure a divorce from her husband, who is a Roman Catholic. She made the accusation against her husband only as a defense. She asked Judge Clement for $20 a week alimony and $500 counsel fees, claiming that her husband was worth $30,000 and is in receipt of an income of $5,000 a year. Decision on the motion was reserved.

At the time of the trouble Mr. Connell said Mr. Walker attacked on him was as unprovoked as was his suspicious about Mrs. Walker. He declared that he never called at the Walker home except once when the Supervisor was not at home, and that was altogether accidental. It was made in the belief that Mr. Walker was at home. Mr. Connell declared that Mrs. Walker was a devoted wife and altogether above suspicion.

Life Imprisonment for Davis.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 4.—Judge Holmes yesterday sentenced George W. Davis to the penitentiary for life for robbing a train near Lincoln. Eleven lives were lost.

MISS TWOMBLY AT REST.

Services Held Yesterday Morning at Her Late Home.

The funeral services over the remains of Miss Alice Twombly, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Hamilton McK. Twombly, who died suddenly of pneumonia on January 1 at Madison, N. J., were held yesterday morning at the residence of her parents, No. 684 Fifth avenue. Only the immediate relatives and friends of the family were present at the house. Detectives Bonaldi, Browne and Stringer, from the Central Office, were stationed inside the house, while twenty members of the City Hall ordinance squad, under the command of Acting Captain Steinkamp, of the East Fifth Street Station, were on the sidewalk on the front and side of the Twombly residence.

The services began at 10:30 a. m. The Rev. Dr. John W. Brown, rector of St. Thomas's Church, Fifth-third street and Fifth avenue, and the Rev. Dr. Butler, of Madison, N. J., officiated. The quartet from St. Thomas's Church sang the hymns, which were: "Heaven is My Home," "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" and "There is a Broom in the House."

The casket, which was pure white in color, was in the drawing room. It was filled with white roses. After the services the remains were conveyed to the Grand Central Depot and from thence by special train to Woodlawn Cemetery, where they were interred.

Among those present were Cornelius Vanderbilt, Charles M. Pew, Mr. and Mrs. William H. House, William K. Vanderbilt, George W. Vanderbilt, Frederick W. Vanderbilt and Dr. and Mrs. Seward Webb.

TWO NEW BATTLESHIPS.

Contracts for Projectiles for War Vessels Given to Pennsylvania Firms.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—The contract for furnishing projectiles for new warships in course of construction, about to be arranged with the Sterling Company, of McKeesport, Pa., and the Carpenter Company, of Pennsylvania, has been concluded, and the amount allotted has been equally divided between the two concerns, each receiving $200,000.

The contracts were awarded through an offer made by the Navy Department to projectile companies at very low rates, which the two successful firms has already accepted. The contracts call for thirteen-inch and eight-inch armor-piercing shells for the battleships Kearsarge and Kentucky, eight-inch shells for the armored cruiser Brooklyn and twelve-inch shells for the coast defense vessel Puritan.

The contracts for the new battleships Kearsarge and Kentucky were today delivered to the Secretary of the Navy, duly executed, and work on the ships has already been commenced by the Newport News Company.

A Bogus Collector Got $2,000.

William Pope, alias Robinson, was discharged from the workhouse yesterday, where he had served a sentence of thirty days. He was immediately rearrested by Central Office detectives on a charge of fraud. Pope is accused of obtaining $4,500 from Frank Keechensen, of No. 400 Broome street, by representing that he was a collector for the New York Street Sprinkling Association. It is said that he obtained $2,000 from various people in the same manner. In Jefferson Market Court Pope pleaded guilty and was held for trial.

Blaze in a Fire Company's House.

Niagara Falls, Jan. 4.—The Mayhew House was destroyed by fire early this morning. Four firemen, who were asleep in the building, narrowly escaped being burned to death. One of them, Edward Corney, was so badly burned that he may not recover. All the apparatus and appliances were completely destroyed.

Sentenced by Footpads in a City.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 4.—Frank Sanberg was attacked by two highwaymen yesterday on the city street, and was robbed of a small amount of money.

MANUSCRIPT IN A BOTTLE.

Study of Ocean Currents Based on Drift of Papers Enclosed in Glass.

Six-Thousand-Mile Voyage During Nearly Eight Years of One of Nine Hundred Bottles.

SET ADRIFF OFF NEWFOUNDLAND.

Carried by Currents Across the Atlantic, Around the Azores, Down the African Coast, to the Caribbean Sea and Thence to the Bahamas.

The pilot chart for the month of January, just issued by the United States Hydrographic Office, devotes space to analysis of ocean currents based upon a scientific study of the drift of bottles, enclosing papers, which have been recovered and sent to the Hydrographic Office since last June. The list includes seventy-nine bottles, and it is exceptional because of the large number of bottles which drifted to the west coast of Ireland, and the Channel shores of England during May, June, July and August of last year.

During that period normal weather prevailed in that region, westerly winds having blown for sixty-two days of the period, with few storms and these of no violence. From a scientific point this drift of the bottles is noteworthy because it gives no evidence of the supposed Rennell's current. The drift of bottle No. 1 in the chart is one of the most interesting in the history of the Hydrographic Office. This bottle was set adrift from the yacht L'Nirondelle, belonging to His Royal Highness Prince of Monaco, during her third scientific cruise, from latitude 39 deg. 55 min. north, longitude 30 deg. 25 min. west, and latitude 45 deg. 50 min. north, longitude 48 deg. 34 min. west. Along this line, extending a distance of about 600 miles, more than a hundred bottles were thrown overboard.

DRIFTED TWO MILES A DAY.

His Royal Highness east No. 1 bottle adrift in July, 1887, and it was not recovered until March 12, 1895, having been adrift seven years and eight months. It was thrown overboard in latitude 43 deg. north, longitude 42 deg. west; it was recovered in latitude 22 deg. 30 min. north, longitude 73 deg. 55 min. west. It was floating about exactly 2,707 days, and in that time it travelled a distance of 6,000 miles, averaging 2 1/2 miles a day.

Tracing the devious wanderings of this bottle on the chart, it is seen that it started on its long journey just off the banks of Newfoundland, the currents swept it across the Atlantic and around the Azores, then down toward Madeira, close to the coast of Africa; then across the Atlantic again, through the Caribbean Sea and close to the Bahamas, where it was recovered last March.

The next longest drift recorded was the bottles sent adrift from the brigantine Charles Cotesworth, June 30, 1890, in latitude 10 deg. N., longitude 27 deg. W. It was not found until five years later, having drifted 4,500 miles in 1,805 days, or an average daily drift of 2 1/2 miles. A bottle thrown overboard from the bark St. Mary, July 7, 1892, was discovered July 4, 1895, having drifted 4,200 miles, making an average daily drift of 2 1/2 miles.

From a purely scientific point the most interesting drifts of all were made by bottles designated Nos. 27 and 29 on the chart.

Both began their travels in nearly the same spot, and within a week of each other; but each terminated its voyage long distances apart. Bottle 27 was started in latitude 32 deg. 57, longitude 23 deg. 32, and No. 29 in latitude 32 deg. 55, longitude 24 deg. 12. Number 27 was discovered in latitude 18 deg. 55, longitude 88, and No. 29 in latitude 22 deg. 30 and longitude 147. The first was adrift for 152 days, and drifted 1,000 miles, while the second was adrift for 255 days, and drifted only 900 miles. In commenting on these drifts the chart says:

"Number 27 was probably given its first impulse shortly after the southwesterly winds which prevailed in this region from December 7 to December 15, 1894, as shown by the Greenwich noon synoptic weather charts. Number 27 was carried southward by the succeeding northwesterly winds, which did not extend beyond the fifty-fifth parallel, and the severe easterly weather of February, 1895, giving northeasterly winds south of the fifty-fifth parallel, and southeasterly north of this parallel, probably served to carry the bottles to their destinations."

VELOCITIES AT THE EQUATOR.

In concluding its observations on the drift of the bottles the chart says: "The uniformly high velocity of bottle papers in waters near the equator strengthens the opinion stated by Lieutenant-Commander Pillsbury that the westerly drift in these regions is but slightly modified by variations of the trade winds."

The chart also makes reference to icebergs. On one occasion we passed within a cable's length of a berg, and found the temperature to be the same as at several miles distance. This would go to show that in thick weather or in any other even temperature and thermometer at normal height, should not be accepted as a reliable guarantee of immunity from ice. Care and most vigilant lookout are the only reliable safeguards. To depend on the thermometer would mean disaster, as I am convinced that a ship would be too close to the ice to extricate itself by the time the thermometer would indicate its presence."

DEAL IN SILVER MINES.

Nine Large Properties in Colorado Sold to an English Syndicate for $1,500,000.

It was announced yesterday in Wall Street that the New Elkhorn Mining Company, of London, has just purchased nine important Colorado silver mines for $1,500,000. The negotiations have been going on half a year, and were conducted for the mine owners by Charles Edward Tracy of this city. Mr. Tracy is a member of the law firm of Steierson, Tracy, Jennings & Russell, in which Grover Cleveland was once a partner.

Lawyer Tracy is now on his way to Colorado, and was in Chicago yesterday. In his absence his affairs are attended to by Fairfax Harrison, who is a lawyer in the Mills building, in Broad street. Mr. Harrison confirmed the report of the $1,500,000 mine sale, and gave the following additional particulars:

The New Elkhorn Mining Company has been incorporated in England within the past ten days for the express purpose of conducting mining operations in the United States, beginning in Colorado. It is composed of wealthy English speculators, who are represented here by Schuyler B.ingham. The company has no office in this city as yet. The old Fitzhugh Mine, near Denver, is one of the most important properties included in the sale, but all have been developed and were thoroughly investigated by experts from London before the negotiations were closed.

In a dispatch received from Mr. Tracy he said he considered the sale an indication that financial men in England have no fear of trouble between that country and the United States. Mr. Harrison was unable to give the names of the several parties interested.

A RECEIVER FOR $17,000,000.

Land and River Improvement Company Sued by the Billings Estate.

Chancellor McGill heard argument in Jersey City yesterday on the return of the order to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed for the Land and River Improvement Company. The company, capitalized at $15,000,000 and incorporated in New Jersey, has assets amounting to $17,000,000 in the city of Superior, Wisconsin, and was practically formed to build up the place.

The application was made by W. D. Edwards and James P. Northrup, on behalf of Dumont Clarke and Samuel E. Kerner. They are administrators of the estate of Frederick Billings, late of Woodstock, Vt. The incorporators of the company were George S. Baxter, Edward G. Buchanan and Charles S. Lincoln.

The Billings estate held $65,000 of the stock of the company. During the hearing it developed that the corporation was one of the many robbed by Francis H. Weeks, who is now in Sing Sing. It lost $500,000 through him.

Messrs. Clarke and Kerner state that the entire indebtedness of the corporation exceeds $3,450,000. Counsel for the company filed a voluminous answer, in which they contend that the concern was honestly managed, and that should a receiver be appointed it would precipitate a panic among the stockholders.

Chancellor McGill announced that he would probably give a decision to-morrow.

THE GOLD BELT DISAPPEARED.

Not Enough Evidence Produced Against Jeanette McIntosh.

Pretty little fifteen-year-old Jeanette McIntosh, of No. 430 West Forty-ninth street, is in trouble. Jeanette worked for Miss Finn, a dressmaker, at No. 104 West Forty-eighth street. On December 21 last Miss Finn packed two dresses in a box and gave them to Jeanette to deliver. One was for Mrs. Hirsch, at the Hotel

Majestic, Seventy-second street and Central Park West, and the other was for Mrs. Goldman, at the Sherman Square Hotel, Seventy-first street and Western Boulevard. In the box containing the dresses Miss Finn placed a belt, trimmed with gold and jewels, belonging to Mrs. Hirsch, that she had used for a measure.

A week later the dressmaker received a letter from Mrs. Hirsch asking for her belt. Miss Finn sent for Jeanette, who said she delivered Mrs. Hirsch's dress first. She then went to the Sherman Square Hotel, Mrs. Goldman being out, she gave the box to Henry Jones, of No. 130 West Sixty-first street, a porter, who removed the contents and returned the box. Jeanette declared that she had forgotten about the belt. The porter denied having seen the belt, and Miss Finn procured a warrant in Yorkville Court, on which Jeanette was arrested at her home yesterday morning.

Magistrate Mott decided that the evidence was too slender to convict, so he turned her over to the Gerry Society under $300 bail for examination on Tuesday next.

EVIL DAY FOR MAIDS MARIE.

Detectives Want One, and Another Loses Her Situation.

The maid Marie who was for a short time in the employ of the L. Townsend Burdens, is wanted by the police, who think that she may furnish a clue to the diamond robbery of December 27.

Mrs. Charles G. Parker, of the Hotel Balmoral, had a maid named Marie who had many jewels which she claimed that wealthy relatives had given her. New Year's Day some Central Office detectives found her and questioned her sharply without discovering anything. Mrs. Parker dismissed Marie and her present whereabouts are unknown, but the detectives have learned that she is not the Marie who was in Mrs. Burden's service. The mystery of her jewels, which were so handsome that they attracted considerable attention at the hotel, is involved. Mrs. Parker recommended the girl in October, on a recommendation from an English woman, Mrs. Lowe, whom Marie said was then in Cuba. The girl then claimed to have been in America but four days.

TWO KILLED ON THE RAIL.

One Met Death on the Delaware & Hudson, and Another in Buffalo.

Schenectady, N. Y., Jan. 4.—The dead body of a man supposed to be William Johnson, aged about thirty-five, was found last night on the Delaware & Hudson track, a few miles north of here. He was run over, probably by a freight train. Letters in his pockets show he had been in Chicago. One is from Ballston, signed Bertha Coon.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 4.—Charles H. Baker, forty-five years of age and unmarried, an employee of the American Radiator Works at North Buffalo, was killed by a Belt Line train while walking along the tracks to work this morning. He came here from Rochester.

NEW COLONISTS FOR LIBERIA.

Indications That Many Fortune Seekers Will Sail This Year.

Shipping men in this city now believe that there will be a larger number of colored colonists set out for Liberia this year than in any other recently. Already news has reached here of a colony raised in Alabama which has started for this city on its way to the west coast of Africa. Agent D. Bacon, of the British African Steamship Company, said yesterday:

"We have had a number of persons call in our office to make arrangements for sending out groups. One great group is to go out in February, another in the early Spring and so on until the Fall. We ship them to Liverpool, thence by steamship to Sierra Leone. Generally, the folks we send out are fairly respectable, and have been able to earn some little money here, but now find they cannot do so."

Yates & Porterfield, the shipping merchants of William street, formerly carried many pennant ships for the American Colonization Society. They do not do so now. Mr. Porterfield said yesterday:

"Most of the negroes picked out by the Colonization Society were the very poor and the unfortunate. It is a question whether the best thing to do was to turn them into a new country and let them hustle for a living. In many cases they came back, if they could, and if they didn't, started out there."

"No money very best of the colored people go. Not a dollar is wasted in Liberia. President Cheeseman is doing all he can to make Liberia prosperous, and is meeting with a fair measure of success."

"I have been battling against England for many a long day, but my efforts at persuading my fellow-men to take the same path have been somewhat remiss, lately. I admit. That is all over now, for I'll begin in Norwalk, Conn., this week. Englishmen, as well as Irishmen, will listen to my lecture, and you may believe I'll give it to them in a way they never heard it before."

This is why there isn't a single piece offered at this sale that isn't less than manufacturers' cost, and in most instances less than half their real value at the present time.
